

Bonnerot Peptic Ulcer

Extrait du livre

Peptic Ulcer

de Bonnerot

Éditeur : B. Jain

<http://www.editions-narayana.fr/b1314>

Sur notre librairie en ligne vous trouverez un grand choix de livres d'homéopathie en français, anglais et allemand.

Reproduction des extraits strictement interdite.

Narayana Verlag GmbH, Blumenplatz 2, D-79400 Kandern, Allemagne

Tel. +33 9 7044 6488

Email info@editions-narayana.fr

<http://www.editions-narayana.fr>

SYMPTOMS AND HOMOEOPATHIC TREATMENT OF THE ULCER OF THE STOMACH AND DUODENUM

Ulcer of the stomach and of the duodenum are very nearly related as regards the causes, symptoms and treatment. The first one is known since longtime and the literature on it is particularly rich. The duodenal ulcer is very recently described and is less studied.

In order to avoid all confusions we will adopt the following plan. First we will study fully the symptoms and treatment of the ulcer of the stomach. Then we will take up the duodenal ulcer, showing the differences between the two affections, referring to the several common remedies and to avoid repetition, to the first part of our study.

Ulcer of the Stomach

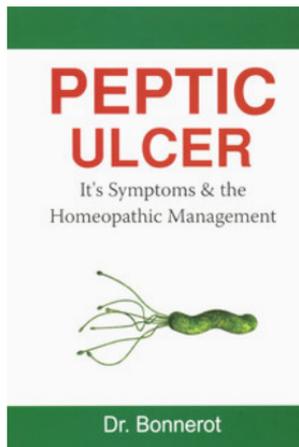

The authors of the 19th century, who have created the nosology with its qualities and defects, have left for us a very schematic, but very vivid description. Thus the round ulcer of Gruwilaier and Dieulafoy may be described by the following triad of symptoms: Hematemesis, pains as if by needles and burning.

The doctors who have come after them had more vast documentation and means of more complete exploration but knowing well that the facts were generally more complex than their predecessors thought of, they could not revoke the narrow limit of the local disease. A grave affection is rarely primitive. As regards the ulcer, the progressive and the insidious beginning are much more frequent than the sudden beginning. There is an undeniable relation among the different affections specially in gastric pathology. The dyspepsia

The part played by the tuberculosis and syphilis is exaggerated by some authors. However syphilitic ulceration is far from being rare : Fournier and Cornil have already indicated syphilitic ulcers cured by the application of Iodide of potass. A case of Dieulafoy which has become classic, is found in the reports of the Academy of Medicine of the 17th May, 1898. In 1932, in the consultation chamber of a Homoeopathic hospital we have seen a patient, having severe gastric pains, in whom an ulcer or a cancer was suspected. A positive Wasserman led us to the diagnosis in another direction, and a treatment given in St. Louis made all the symptoms to disappear. It is wise, while there are symptoms of ulcer to make a Wasserman's test. If it is positive we advise association of Homoeopathic treatment, a treatment by injection (Arsenic and Bismuth alternately). In spite of the remarkable works of Dr. Nebel and of other homoeopaths, we insist on intensive treatment in case of confirmed syphilis. The nosode Luesinum in high dilution may be prescribed.

In some cases of tonsillitis or rhino-pharyngitis, are thought to be the causes ; we think that these two affections often coincide with ulcer as with many other diseases but there is between them no relation of cause and effect. The rhinopharynx is to be examined only to prescribe according to the symptoms. One should note the co-existence of ulcer lesions of the stomach and nasal lesions in the pathogenesis of Kali Bichromicum.

Finally a frequent cause of ulcer, alone or associated with the preceding causes is gastric ptosis. It is related to muscular insufficiency and the latter is related to sedentarism. Atrophy of the abdominal belt, gastric ptosis, stasis, ulceration such are the sequelae in the majority of cases. It is not by a remedy that one may repair the abdominal muscular insufficiency, but the symptoms that it produces may be found in many pathogeneses, specially of Lycopodium and Sepia.

Bonnerot

Peptic Ulcer

It's Symptoms & the Homeopathic Management

74 pages, broché
publication 2002

Plus de livres sur homéopathie, les médecines naturelles et un style de vie plus sain www.editions-narayana.fr